MORE STRIKES ARE REPORTED

Labor Troubles Continue To Be Felt All Over The Country.

STRIKE IS ON IN MILWAUKEE NOW

Green Bay And Oshkosh Also Feel The Effects Of Labor Difficulties--Chicago Has A Busy Time.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, May 2.—The city has resumed its usual appearance. The military and police patrols have been withdrawn and most of the labor organizations have resumed work. King Edward arrived here on a three days' visit.

Little Change.

Chicago, May 2.—There is but little change today in the strike situation. The city is gradually coming to a standstill. This number, it is expected, will be augmented when the industries depending on lake traffic for supplies are compelled to cease operations.

Not Much Damage.

The longshoremen's strike has not so far resulted in stopping business in this city to any great extent. Very few longshoremen have been ordered out.

Three Thousand Out.

Chicago, May 2.—Three thousand structural iron workers struck today and building operations, particularly in the business section of the city, are almost at a standstill.

Union Molders.

Milwaukee, May 2.—A thousand union molders struck today for more pay.

Little Trouble In Germany.

Berlin, May 2.—May assemblies of working men were larger in Berlin and the industrial centers of Germany than for several years previously, but no disorders so far have been reported. Sixty-two meetings of socialists were held in Berlin and its suburbs. At one of these meetings 10,000 persons were present and at another 5,000. Work continued at many factories here and elsewhere.

Carpenters Strike At Green Bay.
Green Bay, Wis., May 2.—General tieup of the building industry here is probable because of a disagreement between the carpenters' union and contracting carpenters over a new scale that went into effect today increasing wages from a maximum of twenty-seven and one-half to thirty cents per hour and demanding a nine hour day.

Tie Up At Oshkosh.
Oshkosh, Wis., May 2.—Building operations are tied up as a result of a strike of all the union carpenters.

"EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH" CONFERENCE

Soldiers of Thought From Both North and South of Mason and Dixon Line Gather.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Lexington, Ky., May 2.—An army of visitors, comprising the leading educators and philanthropists, the soldiers of thought, from both above and below Mason and Dixon's line, has invaded Lexington and will retain possession of the city during the remainder of this week. They come to attend the Conference for Education in the South. This will be the ninth of these extraordinary annual gatherings, and promises to be one of the most noteworthy educational conferences in the history of this country.

A noteworthy addition to the gathering has arrived in the party of President Robert C. Ogden, recruited in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other Northern centers. The party came on a special train of ten cars. Every train from the Far South today also brought its contingent from that section, and when Governor Beckham delivers the address of welcome in the Auditorium this evening it will be in the presence of the most distinguished assemblage ever seen in Lexington.

President Ogden will deliver a response to Governor Beckham's greeting this evening and this will be followed by an address by Governor Folk of Missouri. At 9:30 o'clock in the evening the members of the conference and guests will be given a reception at the Sayre Institute.

The conference this year is to be of the most practical character and will have direct bearing on the vital questions of the hour. Of foremost importance will be the session tomorrow morning, which will be in charge of the state superintendents of public instruction and will be occupied with a review of significant events in the educational work of the several states during the past year.

The subject appointed for Friday morning is: "Agriculture and the Application of Scientific Knowledge to the Work of the Actual Farmer on His Land." Canada is now presenting a striking illustration of successful farming under the guidance of practical science. The man who has probably done more than anyone else to bring about this result is Dr. James W. Robertson of the Macdonald College at St. Anne de Bellevue. Dr. Robertson has accepted an invitation to address the conference and tell of the plans and results of his work. Another prominent speaker along the same line will be Dr. S. A. Knapp, of Lake Charles, La., who, under the direction of the United States government, has had remarkable success among the farmers of Texas in staying the ravages of the boll weevil and making their lands productive.

PRICES SMASHED FOURTEEN POINTS

Result of Heavy Selling Which Began on New York Stock Exchange Yesterday Afternoon.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, May 2.—Prices smashed from 2 to 14 points at the opening of the stock market today as a result of the continuance of the heavy selling which began yesterday afternoon.

The market rallied shortly after noon and there was a substantial recovery in stock list, but before one o'clock, however, it started down, the gains being lost.

There were occasional rebounds of prices but the periodical outbursts of liquidation were constantly renewed up to the middle of the afternoon with new low levels for prices. There was considerable recoveries later in the day and the market closed active but unsteady.

in the city, 150 in number. They demand a minimum scale of 30 cents an hour. The contractors claim that they cannot afford to pay this, but have asked for time to consider the proposition.

In Pittsburgh

The structural iron workers were the only craftsmen in the Pittsburgh district to quit work in a body because of the refusal of the employers to grant the demands for an advance. Seven hundred men struck for an increase of 50 cents a day and the recognition of the union. There are a few carpenters and bricklayers idle through failure of the employers to make small concessions, but the movement was not general.

After a month's idleness, work was resumed at the Harwick plant of the Allegheny Coal company, near Oshkosh, Pa., with nonunion miners. A number of armed deputies are on guard about the property, but there was no disorder and none is expected.

At Philadelphia

The first May day strike in Philadelphia took place at the factory of George W. Smith & Co., furniture manufacturers, when 300 cabinet makers quit work. Cabinet makers at several other plants also stopped work. The union demands an eight-hour day and a fixed schedule of wages.

In Indianapolis

Four hundred carpenters in Indianapolis went on strike to enforce the demand for an increase of 5 cents an hour in wages. Fifteen boss carpenters acceded to the demands. The union machinists have given their employers until Friday to meet their demands for an increase.

In Youngstown

In Youngstown, O., six hundred painters, carpenters, lathers, and structural iron men struck for an eight-hour day and recognition of the union. The strike has tied up all the building operations throughout the entire city, the workmen leaving many houses half finished.

At Cincinnati

Nearly 500 planing mill employees and several hundred pipe-fitters and electricians went on strike. They demanded an increase in wages. An increase also has been demanded by 350 linemen employed by the telephone company, but the men have not gone out.

FRATERNITIES IN NATIONAL SESSION

Alpha Delta Phi Gathering at Portland, Me., and Phi Upsilon Meeting at Harvard.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Portland, Me., May 2.—Elaborate preparations have been concluded for the entertainment of the delegates to the national convention of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, which will be in session here during the next three days. An informal reception at the Falmouth hotel ushers in the gathering this evening. The business sessions will begin tomorrow morning and in the afternoon the delegates will visit Bowdoin college at Brunswick. Hamilton W. Mable is the president of the fraternity and will preside over the convention. The fraternity is the fourth oldest of the Greek letter societies in America and is one of the largest in point of membership.

Hartford, Conn., May 2.—Delegates representing leading colleges throughout the country are here for the seventy-third annual convention of the Psi Upsilon fraternity, which will be in session during the next few days as the guest of Beta Beta chapter of Trinity College. The gathering opens with a "smoker" this evening and will conclude with a banquet at the Allen House Friday night. The fraternity is one of the oldest in the country, having been founded at Union college in 1832.

Four of Them Liable to Pass Away.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, May 2.—Eight unconscious men were taken from a tunnel under the Hudson river connecting Jersey City and Manhattan Island today after an explosion in the depths of the tunnel. Four are not expected to recover.

Last evening in the photograph studio of R. H. Barlow the annual meeting of the Janesville Automobile club was held. In the past our lawmakers were swelled with the pride and glory of their position—but from present indications the lawmaker of the future will go to his day's work like No. 2.

RESIGNATION WAS ACCEPTED TODAY BY CZAR HIMSELF

Witte Is Out and His Personal Enemy Succeeds Him in the Ministry.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

St. Petersburg, May 2.—The resignation of Count Witte as premier has been accepted. Former Minister of the Interior Goremykin succeeds him. Goremykin's elevation to the premiership has created amazement. He is not only regarded as a reactionary but the general opinion is he is not equal to the task of facing the coming crisis. Witte's retirement from public life is complete.

Congress Is To Consider Loaning San Francisco Two Hundred Million Dollars.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

San Francisco, Calif., May 2.—Congressman Walsh said today that when the debris from all the buildings was cleared away he expected that fully a thousand or fifteen hundred more bodies would be found. The opinion is prevalent that more lost their lives than was first anticipated. The lack of food has not yet become pressing, but it will soon be a scarcity who is the Government's special representative in Frisco, has been notified that he will be expected to give accurate plans, as made by former Mayor Phelan, for the securing of the two-hundred-million-dollar loan to be asked for from congress to rebuild the city. None of the victims are dead, but four are thought to be fatally injured. Lieut. Smith maintains that his men were not responsible for the starting of the fight and that he could not stand by and see his troops battered with bricks and clubs.

CAREFUL TRAINING

BY JANESVILLE MAN

Frank Holt Makes a Name for Himself As Instructor for Debaters.

In a debate between Wisconsin and Beloit Academies Saturday evening over the Primary Election Law, the decision was given to the former by a unanimous decision of the judges.
The question was stated: "Is the Primary Election Law Justifiable?" It did not refer to the Law used in this state, though Wisconsin law was quoted in several instances. Great credit is due to Mr. Frank Holt of this city, but now of the university, for the assistance he rendered the Wisconsin Academy boys. The judges were Messrs. Eley and Rough of Rockford and Mr. William Smith of this city.

TRAMP DOG "YELLOW" HAS

BEEN DEPORTED FROM CITY

Good-Natured Canine That Was Everybody's Friend Will Be Seen No More.

"Yellow," the good-natured tramp-dog that wandered into the city from nowhere long before the dandelions bloomed and has since been reveling in the carefree, bohemian life of the streets—sitting at any hour or not at all according to circumstances, and sleeping in stairways or under benches, wherever the close of each eventful day chance to find him, has been deported far from the maddening crowd. "Yellow" never learned to understand the "devil-wagon" and invariably joined in pursuit whenever one rounded his particular corner. It is doubtful if existence in the country which offers fewer opportunities for original investigation, even with the regular board and lodging, will bring entire contentment to the wanderer. He looked reproachfully, but with no thought other than that of patient submission and resignation to his fate, at Officers Morrissey and Bear when they landed him on a southbound interurban car last evening, consigned to the station of Powers where a kind-hearted farmer had agreed to provide a good home.

VISITED FAMOUS
CUT AT CULEBRA

OSCAR L. BROWNELL WRITES
FROM ISTHMUS OF PANAMA.

BUSY SCENE IS PRESENTED

Headquarters of Zone Have Been Moved From City of Panama

to City of Culebra.

Cristobal, April 17, 1906.

Recently I, in company with three friends, made a trip through some of the famous portions of the canal and may be able to give you something of interest concerning what I saw.

We left Cristobal by train one morning, we went to Bas Obispo, thirty miles away. From there we went on foot. We traveled through Bas Obisco cut, to Las Caschides and Empire and thence to Culebra. There we stopped for noon, dining with friends at the largest hotel in the isthmus.

We spent some time in the city, seeing various points of interest. The headquarters of the Canal Zone are now located there, having been moved from the City of Panama. The water supply is good and almost unlimited. A very heavy pressure is con- sidered, and Janesville, a manufacturing center of 10,000 population, and one of the most prosperous of the cities in the southern part of the state, are only 72 miles apart by the shortest line of rail travel.

But if a Milwaukee business man wants to go to Janesville, or a Janesville man wants to come to Milwaukee, what facilities for rapid and convenient transportation has he? He can go either way on the North-Western road and spend about two hours and three-quarters going each way, nominally—but he is likely to lose from a quarter to a half hour in changing cars at Jefferson Junction.

"He can also go on the Milwaukee road, by way of Whitewater and Milwaukee Junction. This is out on the Prairie du Chien division, where the Milwaukee road is not disposed to run trains very fast. It takes two hours and a half to make the 72 miles, and on some trains one has to change cars at Milton Junction. This is hardly as well as the same road is being by Milwaukee in cutting the time of its fast trains between here and Chicago, 55 miles, to an hour and three-quarters.

"One can't go to Janesville and back on the North-Western road in one day unless he catches the 5:05 train from Milwaukee in the morning.
And even then he has to leave Janesville at 12:45 p. m. If one wants to come in from Janesville to Milwaukee on this road for the day, he can do so, there being a train scheduled to arrive here at 10:50 and another to leave at 5:30. There is no travel between these two points on the North-Western road on Sunday, for the simple reason that there are no trains.

"Getting over on the Milwaukee road, one can make the trip either way pretty comfortably in twelve hours, and still have considerable time to transact business in Milwaukee or in Janesville. But the trains are slow, unspeakably slow. It takes a great deal of courage in these days of rapid and comfortable travel to chance a trip between Milwaukee and Janesville. One is likely to exhaust his fund of patience entirely. There are no evening trains either way, not early morning trains on this road.

"Milwaukee and Janesville, with two lines of railroad, ought to have the benefit of first-class train service between each other. People who have to make the trip between these points are obliged to pay first-class fares, and there ought to be some compensation in the way of first-class service. It would promote travel and tighten the bonds of business relations between the two cities."

"The Journal, however, neglected to state that the connections forty years ago between Janesville and Milwaukee were practically as good as they are now and that the people rejoiced when the schedules were so arranged that they could go and come from Milwaukee on the same day. The Journal says:

FIRST OF WEEKLY

WEATHER REPORTS

Government Again Begins Issue of

Bulletins in Climatological Service

— Extreme Temperatures.

Last summer the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture issued weekly bulletins on the progress of the crops in every section of the country. This year this service is supplemented by a weekly report of the weather conditions and that received in this state will be known as the Weather Bulletin of the Wisconsin Section of the Climatological Service of the Weather Bureau. For the week ending Monday, April 30, the general summary is:

The week opened with decidedly cool weather in most portions of the state, especially in the northern, central, and Lake-shore counties,

where temperatures below the freezing point were general on the 23rd.

This cold period was followed by warmer weather, with local thunderstorms at many points on the 25th and 26th. The mean temperature for the week was above the normal in most parts of the state, being highest over the west-central counties, and lowest along the eastern Lake shore, where the influence of the lake on local conditions was very marked.

During the latter part of the week
the weather was warm and pleasant.

The precipitation during the past week has been below the normal, and except in a few east-central counties has been generally less than half an inch. Most of the precipitation occurred with the local thunderstorms on the 23rd and 25th. Throughout the northwestern counties the total for the week was generally less than one-fourth of an inch and the greatest amount reported for the week was less than one inch.

Both highest and lowest temperatures are reported from Koenigs-

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, May 2, 1866.—Game of Ball.—Those wishing to join in the game will please meet near the Register of Deeds' office at 3 1/2 o'clock.

Stolen Goods Found.—Yesterday Sheriff Winchester and Officer Park instituted a search in the locality known as "The Patch" for goods stolen from a car on Sunday night. At first their research developed nothing but finally entered a shanty and tearing up the floor—which was securely nailed down—dug down some two feet into clay underneath and found several whole pieces of cloth. Afterwards they went to another locality where the inmates seemed very willing that they should search. They found nothing inside, but from beneath a pile of wood some distance in the clay, five entire pieces of cloth were unearthed. Two suspicious characters have been arrested but as yet have not had an examination. There are still several hundreds of dollars worth of goods missing to which no clue has been obtained; and as parties state that there was a strong smell of burning cloth in the vicinity last night, there probably will be nothing found of them.

Enforcing It.—In many parts of the State, we observe that preparations are on foot to enforce the law passed at the last session of the legislature prohibiting saloon keepers from allowing minors to play billiards or drink whisky in saloons. The law, it strikes us, is a good one, and if the temperance organizations will take hold of the matter and see to its enforcement, they will do an efficient work. It is quite bad enough that men should ruin themselves by the stultic habit of drinking, but it is terrible that boys should be permitted to hang around saloons and gulp down this liquid death. Save the boys.

The Milwaukee News says that the Hon. L. C. Sloan proposes to abuse the President at the Court Room to night. We think the honorable gentleman has too much good taste to read extracts from copperhead papers of a year ago.

The Maine men who skulked over the border into the Providence to escape the draft during the war, now have to pay a Crown tax of $2 each and become liable to do military duty against the Fenians or leave the country.

KILLED 74 SNAKES IN ONE ANT KILL

Northwest Lima Farmer Had Strange Experience While Digging Post Holes.

Northwest Lima, May 1.—Ursio Towney had quite an experience Monday. He was digging post holes when he thrust the spade in an ancient ant hill. Turning the dirt back he found the hole was full of wriggling snakes. Prompted by instinct said to be the first law of nature, he sought another location but returned and began a campaign of extermination. When it was over he counted seventy-four dead reptiles from four to forty inches in length. It is thought the snakes were attracted there by the unlimited supply of ant eggs—a snake delirium.

Farmers are plowing and seeding as rapidly as possible.

Marshall Holmes of Whitewater was seen on our streets Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hobbs spent a part of last week visiting his brother at Green Lake.

J. J. Downey was an over Sunday visitor at Green Lake.

Russell and Margaret Brady and Ray Collins are the latest victims of measles.

V. J. Vance of Whitewater spent part of last week on the farm.

HARMONY.

even if they are held in Spring Brook. There is no need for the majority of the citizens to be infected with them to please a few "sports."

So Davidson now states what his platform really is? It will be the man, not the platform that wins this fall and Davidson appears to be popular throughout the state.

Mayor Schmitz has made an admirable name for himself during the trying days in San Francisco and it is probable that some of his misguided friends will now boom him for governor.

THE DISCREDITED DODGER.

Proof of the utility of advertising dodgers continues to pile up. An instructive bit of evidence comes from Jacksonville, Fla., and is thus reported in the Times-Union of that city:

An indication of the comparative value of the dodger and the newspaper was illustrated strikingly the other day. It was decided to play a game of baseball in the afternoon. It was not the day scheduled, and the plan was hit upon after the morning paper had been published. The evening paper was on the street too late to serve as an advertising medium for the game, but dodgers were circulated by thousands, both in the business and residential parts of the city. It was thought that the city was thoroughly covered and that the usual crowd would be out. The game was played, and there were just seventy-two spectators as against 900 to 1,500 when the games are advertised just one day in the daily press, and with only three or four lines space at that.

The dodger that is stuck under doors or left in yards to be the plaything of the wind is a thoroughly discredited form of advertising. Business men who prefer it to newspaper space find that stock moves slowly from the shelves while rent, clerk hire and other expenses go rolling on.

There are always people with time to attend a ball game. A few lines in a newspaper will bring a crowd, as the Jacksonville Times-Union says. The probability is that the baseball dodger was not even read, and that although it was distributed far and wide it attracted no attention except possibly among house-keepers who grumbled at the litter on their premises.

It makes no difference what sort of announcement is on a dodger. The thing itself is an intrusive nuisance and its presence is resented accordingly.

THE DOUMA.

There are two conditions indispensable to popular government. One is that the representatives of the people should meet. The other is that their consent should be necessary in the imposition of taxes. Given these two conditions, all the rest follows. Liberty grows as the people become more and more fitted for it. Each new demand of the automatic power must be accompanied by a corresponding concession until the popular house becomes the real governing force.

In an important degree the new Russian douma has the first of the two indispensable requisites for popular government. It exists. It will be called together and addressed by the czar, who will probably tell it how little a thing it is and how great he is. Autocracy already is limiting its powers in every possible direction. Still, it exists. It is the living expression of public opinion. A large section of the Russian people, and the most intelligent section, is articulate as it never was before.

A great many prerogatives, which inhere in the offices of king or emperor are really much less impressive than they look. It was pointed out in a leading New York daily that the privilege of making war, which the czar claims, is held equally by the German Emperor and the Emperor of Austria. That newspaper might have said that King Edward VII. possessed the power. As a matter of fact he possesses also the power to make peace, in respect of the fact that he could cancel every commission in the army without consulting parliament at all.

In actual practice these august persons do not declare war, nor do a number of other silly things they are theoretically entitled to do. They have no fancy for conducting a campaign at their private expense. The representatives stand for the people who pay the bill, and no monarch is antagonizing such an influential element as that.

The whole situation is one for real congratulation and hope. Three years of peace, combined with respect for public opinion, would easily restore the Russian credit to something like the position it occupied two years ago.

PLANNING FOR THE PARKS' IMPROVEMENT

The Park Committee Arrange for the Pleasure and Convenience of Public.

Alderman Brockhaus, as chairman of the park committee, has made arrangements for flower beds and general work in both the Court House and Fourth Ward parks for the coming summer.

Thomas Croft is to have charge of the parks and will be assisted by William Fathers. These two men have worked together for several years past and the manner the parks have been kept up speaks well for their work and the work of the Park Committee. Alderman Brockhaus stated that the ball games which have been held in the upper end of the Court House park must be stopped. Last year there was little objection to these games as the crowds were small, but now they have increased in numbers and the young trees are being damaged and the grass killed, and so the park committee have decided they must stop. In the Fourth Ward park persons have been in the habit of leading their horses across the lawn to the drinking trough and have cut up the lawn badly. This is another feature that Alderman Brockhaus wants stopped and desires the public to be warned. There are to be two large flower beds in the Fourth Ward park and nine beds in the Court House park. In the upper end of this park there will be five beds and in the lower end facing Main street there will be two large canna beds, one foliage bed and the large circular bed in red geraniums. The shrubberies are to be trimmed up and while foliage planted along their bases. Taking it as a whole, the park will present a very pretty appearance. Then, the new drinking fountain will probably be in place next month.

Fainted at the Thought OF THE JANESVILLE JAIL

Lawrence Winney of Beloit Collapsed Twice at Interurban Station and Was Sent Home.

At the thought of spending a few days at the hospitable Janesville mansion with the barred windows, Lawrence Winney of Beloit, arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct and drunkenness on complaint of his wife, fainted on the pavement in a dead faint as Chief Scheibel was about to put him aboard an interurban car. He was revived, but collapsed again, before he could be gotten aboard. This time a restorative had to be applied. Judge Booth, upon hearing the particulars, decided that the man was in no condition for jail service and on his promise to behave himself, had him sent home.

Father Of Mrs. C. C. Crippen, Former Resident Of Janesville Dies By His Own Hand.

Word has been received of the death of Dr. R. N. Rickey, father of Mrs. C. C. Crippen, former American express agent in Janesville, at his home in Grays Lake, Illinois. During Mr. and Mrs. Crippen's residence here Dr. Rickey and his wife lived with them and he has many friends in the city. A telegraphic report from Grays Lake gives the following facts regarding his death.

Dr. R. N. Rickey, an old physician of Grays Lake, Ill., died yesterday morning from an overdose of morphine. He was one of the pioneer physicians of Lake county. He was a veteran of the civil war and a leading citizen. Some months ago he suffered a light paralytic stroke. This was the second attempt at self-destruction. The first was on Monday, but physicians succeeded in resuscitating him. During the night he made a second attempt. His wife discovered him dying and the physicians who were summoned to aid him found him dead.

Mrs. L. C. Plantz
Mrs. L. C. Plantz passed away after a lingering illness at her home, 64 Chatham street, just before nine o'clock last evening. Deceased was 52 years of age and her former home was West Danville, Wis. She had been a resident of Janesville since 1900. A husband; a son, Walter Plantz; a sister, Mrs. Lucy Thomas of Milwaukee; a brother, Samuel Berghardt of West Graubville, and a large circle of friends are left to mourn her loss.

WOODMEN'S PICNIC AN ASSURED SUCCESS

Arrangements Being Completed For a Big Time in Freeport

Members of the committees in charge of arrangements for the big Woodman picnic to be held in Freeport June 1th, are busily engaged in securing side attractions for the event. This will probably be one of the biggest picnics ever held by the Woodmen in this section. They have secured some of the big men of the country to speak to them on this occasion, among them ex-Gov. S. R. Van Sant of Minnesota; Head Consul Talbot; Head Clerk Haas and Director Bort. It is expected that Rockford will be the best represented city at the picnic. This city always sends a large delegation and this year will probably send thousands because of the short distance and the good interurban connections. Janesville and Beloit will undoubtedly keep up their usual custom of being well represented this year because of the excellent electric railway connections. Many special attractions have been provided for. Among them a balloon ascension. Foot races and other sports will also be arranged, prizes being offered for the winners. Ferris wheel and merry-go-round amusements have been secured and a large crowd will find plenty to amuse themselves. The Freeport baseball team of the Wisconsin State League will play two games with the Eau Claire team and the visitors have only to choose the way in which they wish to be entertained by the Freeport Woodmen.

Prizes will be awarded to the best uniformed Foresters; the best band; for the camp sending the largest number of members in the parade and for other features which the committees will make public later. Four hundred dollars have already been subscribed for these prizes. A meeting of all the towns within a radius of 100 miles will be held soon and they will do all in their power to make the gathering a big success.

GRANTING OF SALOON LICENSE IN MONTEREY LIKELY TO MEET WITH VIGOROUS OPPOSITION

City Marshal Appleby Says That Location of Bar There Would Mean Murder.

It was reported today that there is a movement on foot to secure a license for a saloon in Monterey. There is likely to be strong opposition manifested toward the granting of any such license owing to the fact that no officer could be spared to beat that quarter all day and night. City Marshal Appleby said today: "The location of a saloon there would mean murder. It would be just the place for the thieves and other criminals who drop off the trains to congregate and would require closer watching than any other section of the city."

MISTAKEN IDEA AS TO NEW FIRE STATION EXISTS

EXPENSE OF NEW HOUSE WOULD NOT BE LARGE.

IT IS A NECESSITY TODAY

Room Needed to House City Equipment Including Steam Roller and Police Horse.

Mistaken ideas appear to exist in the minds of the citizens as to the real reasons for the proposed erection of a new fire station to take the place of the old No. 1 engine-house on River street. Reports that the new station in Spring Brook was to be abandoned, that the city was to be plunged into a deep debt of thirty or forty thousand dollars, to merely please the whim of a few city officials, have been falsely spread. The real reasons have either been suppressed purposely or have been misinterpreted. That Janesville needs a new station house or at least a place to store the street-sweepers, the street roller, the new street-sweeper just ordered, house the horses for this department and also to house the patrol wagon and patrol horse, is acknowledged by all who have given the matter any thought whatsoever. How to do this is the question.

Mayor's Ideas
It was Mayor Hutchinson's idea to have a new fire station. In conversation this morning he said: "I do not want to see the city plunged into a debt that will be irksome, but the conditions that exist today in the housing of the fire, police and street departments needs attention. My idea, as given in my message, was to erect a new fire station adjacent to the city hall and turn over the old No. 1 house to the street department for storing their equipment and housing their horses. I believe that the best interests of the city can be subserved by the erection of a new engine-house, where the police horse and wagon and the fire department can be housed. I do not believe the cost of such a structure would be more than fifteen thousand dollars and that this would be money well invested."

Take Facts
"Owing to the fact the city had no place to store the street roller during the winter months and when it was not in use it is going to cost five hundred dollars to put it in shape this spring for use. This represents the interest on ten thousand dollars at five per cent for one year. The city is now paying fifteen dollars a month for the keep of the police horse and must soon buy another horse for street work, which will cost the same to board, and this represents the interest on $7,200 at five per cent for one year. Why the whole new fire station could be built for less than that. Still you have no place to store the street-sweeper, the street-roller, and the street-roller. It will cost more money to have these properly cared for."

It is Economy
"I believe it is economy for the city to build a new fire station and turn the old No. 1 house over to the street department. The board of underwriters of the insurance companies urge the removal of the No. 1 fire house from its present quarters to some point at least three blocks west of River street. They do this for the reason that North River street is practically blocked with cars two-thirds of the time and that the company in case of call in that direction must come to Milwaukee street to get their start. As eighty per cent of the fire alarms are on the west side of the river this is an important item to be considered. Then, the old house has not enough floor room for the department and is in an unsanitary condition. The new house, if built, should be on the hill and thus avoid the hard climb up Milwaukee street and give an easy run down. There is no idea of doing away with the Sprague station or the East Side station merely to better protect the property of the city from fire by better equipping the department's new quarters."

Plenty of Room
"While the No. 1 house is cramped for room for the fire department there would be plenty of room for the street department to store all the equipment they have and also to care for four horses if need be. I am sorry that my recommendations to the council were not printed in full, so the people could have gotten at the true facts, but these are my ideas on the subject."

Owens the Property
Another report that has been circulated is that the city does not own the present No. 1 fire house. This property is owned by the city of Janesville, has been its property for the past thirty years and the present building was erected at that time for the accommodation of a volunteer department that did not use horses. This was long before the encroachments of the railway tracks and before the city had grown to its present size. A good deal of the present opposition to the proposed improvement for the protection of the city's interests appears to have generated from mistaken ideas as to the purposes of the proposed change, not through any desire to cripple the different departments of the city."

MISS GRACE DUDLEY WAS HOSTESS FOR MISS ELLA REHFELD LAST EVENING

SHELL-ARTIST IN COOKSVILLE

PERSUADED MR. MILLER TO DABBLE IN FRIENDLY GAME.

CAUGHT BY CAL BROUGHTON

After an Exciting Chase, He Made Terms With Man He Had Wronged and Court.

During the latter part of last week a venerable gentleman with hair of silver gray, a genial, kindly face, and a hearty greeting for everybody, visited Evansville and made friends by the score. He had no baggage, but a valise containing, as was afterwards learned, some phony jewelry and, very interesting little games. One day he drove out to Cooksville and engaged a young man named Miller, in conversation relative to the merits of some gold watches he was selling at $30 a throw. Just for fun he took out three small boxes, put $40 in bills under one of them in such a careless manner that the corner of one greenback stuck out, manipulated the said boxes and gave Mr. Miller a chance to divine under which one the money was concealed. Mr. Miller's guess proved to be quite correct and the kindly face of the operator, expressed some annoyance mingled with surprise that anyone should guess right the very first time.

So he tried it again and his perplexity was visibly increased as Miller once more unerringly located the cash. (As a matter of fact the gambler had been careless again and just the smallest portion of one of the bills was protruding from one of the little boxes.) "Well, you certainly ARE a good guesser," he said to Mr. Miller. "Sometimes, just to put a zest into the deal, I give the buyer one of my $30 watches an opportunity to take one chance. I make the same offer to you against my better judgment. For you have already shown an almost miraculous ability to follow with the eye the manipulations of these little cubes. But I'll be game—what do you say?"

It looked pretty easy to Mr. Miller and he laid down $30 for the watch. Again he saw a bit of green creeping out from under one of the boxes. Such stupidity seemed incredible. He indicated his guess and, as the operator excused himself for a moment and darted out of the door, he lifted the chosen cube to find thereunder a bit of green paper and a piece of bar-soap. Mr. Miller did not moon over his discovery. He made an abrupt movement for the door and got onto the street just as the gentleman with the valise was preparing to drive away with a team. Miller seized hold of the harness attached to the head of one of the horses' heads. "Let go there or I'll—!" thundered the shell-game artist as he reached for his jin-pocket. It seemed wisdom to Mr. Miller to obey and he let go.

Miller went to Evansville at once and complained to the police and Justice C. W. Lowery issued a warrant. Straightway Marshal Cal Broughton was on the trail. All day he followed the fakir, reaching McFarlane, Oregon, and other places just about a half hour behind him. Towards sundown he urged his steaming horse into Brooklyn and came upon the gentlemanly crook walking his tired team.

Just before the case was called in Evansville at eight o'clock that evening the prisoner asked to see the man he had foisted the cheap watch upon. Miller expressed a willingness to make no further complaint if the $30 should be paid back to him. The prisoner tendered the same and also an amount which would amply cover the police justice and Officer Broughton's costs. "The case is dismissed," said Judge Lowery. But before the prisoner departed, he was asked by the court to give an exhibition of his art before the large gallery of friendly spectators. The valise had already been opened and a collection of games suited to all sorts and conditions of gullibility disclosed. "Thanks," said the venerable fakir, "but I perceive in the crowd many young boys who should not see such things, and with your permission I will respectfully decline and take my departure." Which he did.

On the Farm of Peter Lund in Town of Avon—Lay Three Hours As if Dead and Then Revived.

During a storm the first part of the week a horse on Peter Lund's farm in the town of Avon was felled to the earth by a bolt of lightning while the boy who was leading it and the other horses he was driving escaped serious injury. The young man was dazed by the shock but succeeded in getting the team to the barn. Supposing that the other horse was dead, Mr. Lund notified the agent of the mutual insurance company of his loss, but when the latter arrived on the scene about three hours later the plucky beast had revived and seemed to have sustained no lasting ill-effects. On the farm of James Welch a barn was struck and a calf killed.

a single cylinder Cadillac was driven from Toledo to Cleveland and return, covering 244 miles actual travel, without stopping except for gasoline. The entire run consumed only 14 gallons and was made in 11 hours and 40 minutes. This was in competition with a wellknown car of the two cylinder type. At the start, the two cylinder led out for some few miles, then the single cylinder Cadillac passed it and the "double opposed" was not seen again on the trip. It had not met with an accident, but owing to faults characteristic of its class, it simply did not have the STAYING QUALITIES, hence was compelled to give up the contest and return to Toledo.

But Attorney E. H. Ryan Would Not Be Convinced Even After He Saw The Fish and the Tackle.

Veteran fishermen opened their eyes wide yesterday afternoon when Harry Thometz strode into town with a pole and line, dangling a 9 1/2-pound pickerel which he solemnly asserted that he hooked in the gas-house pond. Doubting-Thomases were advised to look at the pole with which he did it, and believe. "The best thing about this fish," said E. H. # San Francisco As It Used to Be

Gayest of Cities That Gave Itself to Romance, Love and Pleasure.

All Nations of the Earth Met in Its Confines—Where Lavish Hospitality, Gayety in Restaurants and Love of Open Air Life
Abounded.

The old San Francisco is dead. The gayest, lightest hearted, most pleasure loving city of this continent and in many ways the most interesting and romantic is a horde of budding refugees living among ruins, says the New York Sun. It has already started to rebuild, but those who have known that peculiar city by the Golden Gate and have caught its flavor of the Arabian Nights feel that it can never be the same. It is as though a pretty, frivolous woman had passed through a great tragedy. She survives, but she is sobered and indifferent. When it rises out of the ashes it must be a modern city, much like other cities and without its old flavor.

The city lay on a series of hills and the lowlands between. These hills are really the end of the coast range of mountains which lie between the interior valleys and the ocean to the south. To its rear was the ocean, but the greater part of the town fronted on two sides on San Francisco bay; a body of water always tinged with gold from the great washings of the mountains, usually overhung with a haze and of magnificent color changes. Across the bay to the north lies Mount Tamalpais, about 3,000 feet high and so close that ferries from the water front took one in less than half an hour to the little towns of Sausalito and Belvedere, at its foot.

Peculiar Yet Delightful Climate.
The climate of California is peculiar. It is hard to give an impression of it. In the first place all the forces of nature work on laws of their own in that part of California. There is no thunder or lightning; there is no snow except a flurry once in five or six years; there are perhaps half a dozen nights in the winter when the thermometer drops low enough so that there is a little film of ice on exposed water in the morning. Neither is there any hot weather. Yet most easterners remaining in San Francisco for a few days remember that they were always chilly.

For the Gate is a big funnel, drawing in the winds and the mists which cool off the great, hot interior valleys of the San Joaquin and Sacramento. So the west wind blows steadily ten months of the year, and almost all the mornings are foggy. This keeps the temperature steady at about 55 degrees—a little cool for comfort of an unaccustomed person, especially indoors. Californians, used to it, hardly ever think of making fires in their houses except in the few exceptional days of the winter season, and then they rely mainly upon fireplaces. This is like the custom of the Venetians and the Florentines.

But give an easterner six months of it, and he, too, learns to exist without a chill in a steady temperature a little lower than that to which he is accustomed at home. After that one goes about with perfect indifference to the temperature. Summer and winter San Francisco women wear light tailor made clothes, and men wear the same fall weight suits all the year around.

Picturesque Entrance to City.
One usually entered the city by way of San Francisco bay. Across its yellow flood, covered with the fleets from the strange seas of the Pacific, San Francisco presented itself in a hill panorama. Probably no other city of the world could be so viewed and inspected at first sight. It rose above the passenger as he reached dockage in a succession of hill terraces.

At one side was Telegraph hill, the end of the peninsula, a height so abrupt that it had a 200 foot sheer cliff on its seaward frontage. Farther along lay Nob hill, crowned with the Mark Hopkins mansion, which had the effect of a citadel, and in later years by the great, white Fairmount. Farther along was Russian hill, the highest point. Below was the business district, whose low side caused all the trouble.

Except for the modern buildings, the fruit of the last ten years, the town presented at first sight a disreputable appearance. Most of the buildings were low and of wood. In the middle period of the seventies, when a great part of San Francisco was building, there was some atrocious architecture perpetrated. In that time, too, every one put bow windows on his house to catch all of the morning sunlight that was coming through the fog, and those little houses, with bow windows and fancy work all down their fronts, were characteristic of the middle class residence district. Then the Italians, who tumbled over Telegraph hill, had built as they listed and with little regard for streets, and their houses hung crazily on a side hill which was little less than a precipice. For the most part the Chinese, although they occupied an abandoned business district, had remade the houses Chinese fashion, and the Mexicans and Spaniards had added to their houses those little balconies without which life is not life to a Spaniard.

Yet the most characteristic thing after all was the coloring, for the sea fog had a trick of making every exposed object a sea gray, which had a tinge of dull green in it. This, under the leaden sky of a San Francisco morning, had a depressing effect on first sight and afterward became a delight to the eye, for the color was soft, gentle and infinitely attractive in mass.

Green, Gray, Tinge.
The hills are steep beyond conception. Where Vallejo street ran up Russian hill it progressed for four blocks by regular steps like a flight of stairs. With these hills, with the strangeness of the architecture and with the green gray tinge over everything, the city fell always into vistas and pictures, a setting for the romance which hung over everything, which has always hung over life in San Francisco since the padres came and gathered the Indians about Mission Dolores.

And it was a city of romance and a gateway to adventure. It opened out on the mysterious Pacific, the untamed ocean, and most of China, Japan, the south sea islands, Lower California, the west coast of Central America, Australia that came to the United States passed in through the Golden Gate. There was a sprinkling, too, of Alaska and Siberia. From his windows on Russian hill one saw always something strange and suggestive creeping through the mists of the bay. It would be a south sea island brig bringing in copra, to take out cottons and lolls; a Chinese junk with fan-like sails, back from an expedition after sharks; a live; an old whaler, which seemed to drip oil, back from a year of cruising in the arctic. Even the tramp wind jammers were deep chested craft, capable of rounding the Horn or of circumnavigating the globe, and they came in streaked and picturesque from their long voyaging.

In the orange colored dawn which always comes through the mists of that bay the fishing fleet would crawl in under triangular lateen sails, for the fishermen of San Francisco bay are all Neapolitans, who have brought their costumes and their customs and sail with lateen rigs shaped like the ear of a horse when the wind fills them and staped an orange brown.

Along the water front the people of these craft met. The smelting pot of the races, Stevenson called it, and this was always the city of his soul. There were black Gilbert Islanders, almost indistinguishable from negroes; lighter Kanakas from Hawaii or Samoa, Lascars in turbans, thickest Russian sailors, wild Chinese with unbridled hair, Italian fishermen in tanned shanters, loud shirts and blue sashes; Greeks, Alaska Indians, little bay Spanish-Americans, together with men of all the European races. These came in and out from among the queer craft to lose themselves in the disreputable, tumble-down, but always mysterious, shanties and small saloons. In the back rooms of these saloons south-sea island traders and captains, fresh from the lands of romance; whaling masters, people who were trying to get up treasure expeditions, filibusters, Alaskan miners, used to meet and trade adventures.

In the Haunts of Crime.

The Barbary Coast was a loud bit of hell. No one knows who coined the name. The place was simply three blocks of solid dance halls, there for the delight of the sailors of the world. On a fine busy night every door blared loud dance music from orchestras, steam pianos and gramophones, and the cumulative effect of the sound, which reached the street was at least strange. Almost anything might be happening behind the swinging doors. For a fine and picturesque bundle of names characteristic of the place a police story of three or four years ago is typical. It all broke out in the Eye Wink dance hall. The trouble was started by a sailor known as Kanaka Pete, who lived in the What Cheer House, over a woman known as Iodo-form Kate. Kanaka Pete chased the man he had marked to the Little Silver Dollar, where he turned and punctured him. The byproduct of his gun made some holes in the front of the Eye Wink, which were proudly kept as souvenirs and were probably there until it went out in the fire. This was low life, the lowest of the low.

Until the last decade almost anything except the commonplace and the expected might happen to a man on the water front. The cheerful industry of shanghaiing was reduced to a science. A stranger taking a drink in one of the saloons which hung out over the water might be dropped through the floor into a boat or be night drink with a stranger and wake in the forecastle of a whaler bound for the arctic. Such an incident is the basis of Frank Norris' novel "Moran of the Lady Letty," and although the novel draws it pretty strong, it is not exaggerated. Ten years ago the police and the foreign consuls, working together, stopped this.

Kennedy street, a wilder and steeper bowery, was the main thoroughfare of these people. An exiled Californian, mourning over the city of his heart, once said:

"In half an hour on Kennedy street I could raise a dozen men for any wild adventure, from pulling down a statue to searching for the Cocos island treasure."

This is hardly an exaggeration. These are a few of the elements which made the city strange and gave it the glamour of romance which has so strongly attracted such men as Stevenson, Frank Norris and Kipling. This lay apart from the regular life of the city, which was distinctive in itself.

The Californian is the second generation of a picked and mixed stock. The merry, the adventurous, often the desperate, always the brave; deserted the south and New England in 1840 to rush around the Horn or to try the perils of the pinnas. They found there already grown old in the hands of the Spaniards younger sons of hidalgos and many of them of the proudest blood of Spain. To a great extent the pioneers intermarried with Spanish women. In fact, except for a proud little colony here and there, the old Spanish blood is sunk in that of the conquering race.

Then there was an influx of intellectual French people, largely overlooked in the histories of the early days, and this Latin leaves has had its influence.

A Distinctive Type.
Brought up in a beautiful country, where no one really has to work very hard to live, nurtured on adventure, savor of a free and merry stock, the real native Californian is a distinctive type, as far from the easterner in psychology as the extreme southerner is from the Yankee. He is easy going, witty, hospitable, lovable, inclined to be unamoral rather than immoral in his personal habits and above all easy to meet and to know. Above all these is an art sense all through the populace, which sets it off from any other part of the country. This sense is almost Latin in its strength, and the Californian owes it to the heaven of Latin blood.

With such a people life was always gay. If they did not show it on the streets, as do the people of Paris, it was because the winds made open cafes disagreeable at all seasons of the year. The gayety went on indoors or out on the hundreds of estates that fringed the city. It was noted for its restaurants. Perhaps for people who care not how they spend their money the very best could not be had there, but for $1, 75 cents, 50 cents, 25 cents or even 15 cents the restaurants afforded the best fare on earth at the price.

The San Francisco French dinner and the San Francisco free lunch were as the Public Library to Boston or the stock yards to Chicago. A number of causes contributed to this consummation. The country all about produced everything that a cook needs and that in abundance—the bay was an almost untapped fishing pound, the fruit farms came up to the very edge of the town, and the surrounding country produced in abundance fine meats, all cereals and all vegetables.

But the chefs who came from France in the early days and liked this land of plenty were the head and front of it. They passed on their art to other Frenchmen or to the clever Chinese. Most of the French chefs at the big restaurants were born in Canton, China. Later the Italians, learning of this country where good food is appreciated, came and brought their own style. Householders always lined out one or two nights of the week, and boarding houses were scarce, for the unattached preferred the restaurants. The eating was usually better than the surroundings.

Marvelous Meals in Little Hotels.

Meals that were marvels were served in tumble-down little hotels. Most famous of all the restaurants was the Poodle Dog. There have been no less than four restaurants of this name, beginning with a frame shanty where in the early days a price of French cooks used to exchange recipes for gold dust. Each succeeding restaurant of the name has moved farther downtown, and the recent Poodle Dog stands or stood on the edge of the Tenderloin in a modern five story building. And it typified a certain spirit that there was in San Francisco. For on the ground floor was a public restaurant where there was served the best dollar dinner on earth. It ranked with the best, and the others were in San Francisco. Here, especially on Sunday night, almost everybody went to vary the monotony of home cooking. Every one who was any one in the town could be seen there off and on. It was perfectly respectable. A man might take his wife and daughter there. On the second floor there were private dining rooms, and to dine there with one or more of the opposite sex was risqué, but not especially terrible. But the third floor, and the fourth floor, and the fifth! The elevator man of the Poodle Dog, who held the job for many years and never spoke unless spoken to, wore diamonds and was a heavy investor in real estate.

A City That Never Slept.

The city never went to bed. There was no closing law, so that the saloons kept open nights and Sundays at their own sweet will. Most of them elected to remain open until 3 o'clock in the morning at least. Yet this restaurant life does not exactly express the careless pleasure-loving character of the people. In great part their pleasures were simple, inexpensive and out of doors. No people were fonder of expeditions into the country, of picnics, which might be brought off at almost any season of the year—and often long tours in the great mountains and forests. And hospitality was nearly a vice.

Centers of hospitality were the clubs, especially the famous Bohemian and the Family. The latter was an offshoot of the Bohemian, which had been growing fast and young with the older organization for the boy of entertaining pleasing and distinguished visitors. "High society" in San Francisco had settled down from the rather wild spirit of the middle period. It had come to be there a good deal as it is elsewhere. There was much wealth, and the hills of the western addition were growing up with fine mansions. Outside of the city, at Burlingame, there was a fine country club centering a region of country estates which stretched out to Menlo park. This club had a good polo team, which played every year with teams of Englishmen from southern California and even with teams from Honolulu.

PLENTY OF CASH TO REBUILD CITY

NEW YORK FINANCIERS OFFER TO AID SAN FRANCISCO.

HAVE $100,000,000 TO LOAN

Senator Newlands Informs Finance Committee That Eastern Capitalists Are Ready to Accept Bonds and Mortgages.

San, Francisco, May 2.—The first definite proposition for furnishing money on a large scale to San Francisco for the purpose of rebuilding some of the burned sections was made public Tuesday, when it was announced that a syndicate of New York capitalists had agreed to advance $100,000,000. The news came in a telegram received by W. F. Herrin, chief counsel of the Southern Pacific, from United States Senator Newlands, of Nevada, who had a large interest in the burned Palace hotel. Senator Newlands stated that he had submitted the plan to New York financiers and that they had virtually consented to supply the money on a bond and mortgage basis. The names of the New York people are not given. The offer is under discussion by the local finance committee.

Accept Foreign Aid.
It was decided that the citizens' committee would accept all offers of aid from foreign countries. This decision was reached when a communication was received through Japanese official sources asking if the citizens would receive the contribution of 200,000 yen made by the emperor of Japan and declined by the United States government. The finance committee held that San Francisco, being essentially a cosmopolitan city, it was obliged to care for many destitute foreigners and that it would be proper in these circumstances to accept all outside tenders of assistance.

Banks Resume Business.
The local money stringency was somewhat relieved by the banks resuming business in a small measure through the branch United States mint. Well-known depositors were given certified checks for small sums by the savings banks, and business clients of commercial banks were accommodated, if they so desired, with sums not exceeding $500 each.

Discuss Special Session.
The subject of having a special session of the legislature called at an early day is being earnestly considered by the general committee. The calamity San Francisco has suffered will call for many changes in the California statutes and in the city charter in order to permit of new regulations in the matter of increasing indebtedness, making longer leases, etc., and Gov. Pardee is urged to convene the legislature in extra session as early as possible.

Relief System Works Well.
The relief of the destitute was continued Tuesday under the new system devised by Dr. Devine, of the National Red Cross and the local authorities, and it is reported that all unworthy and undeserving persons will within a few days be eliminated from the lists of those entitled to assistance.

Plans for establishing and maintaining a large free employment bureau have been perfected and will be speedily put into operation. Through this means it is hoped to afford another channel for assistance and to distinguish the able body who is willing to work from the man who prefers to subsist on the generosity of others.

Build Frame Structures.
Considering the condition of the city, an astonishing amount of building has been commenced. The new structures are all one-story frames, but they will be sufficient for a time to provide for the immediate needs of their builders.

National Contribution.
James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee, received a telegram from Secretary of War Taft, notifying him that only $750,000 remained out of the $2,500,000 appropriated by congress, and that this sum would be expended for supplies, etc. The telegram was read at the session of the finance committee and filed without discussion.

Philadelphia, May 2.—The great revival which began in this city three months ago under the direction of the Revs. B. A. Torrey and C. M. Alexander, closed Tuesday night with a monster testimonial meeting to the two evangelists.

PAT DOLAN YIELDS TO UNION

DEPOSED OFFICIAL GIVES UP CLAIM TO LEADERSHIP.

Former President of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, Steps Down in Interest of Harmony.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 2.—Pat Dolan, former president of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America, issued a statement Tuesday night in which he announces his withdrawal from the contest for the office to which Frank Feehan was elected by the miners after weeks of wrangling by delegates in convention, following Dolan's action at Indianapolis in voting with the operators and against the wishes of the miners. In his statement Dolan says:

"After careful consideration and advising with my friends I have concluded to resign my office and withdraw from the contest for control of the presidency of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America. In doing so, I am prompted solely by a regard for the best interests of the miners of this field. Personally, I am satisfied that my claim to the office of president would be sustained by any impartial tribunal, and in this I am fully encouraged by the advice of competent legal counsel, but to force the contest further would only tend to widen the factional differences in the Pittsburg district and in the end would unquestionably interfere with the prosperity of the union. It is up to some one of the participants to withdraw in the interest of harmony, and I am willing to make the personal sacrifice."

Dolan then recites his connection with labor unions since boyhood, and details the prosperity of the local district since he became president. He says that when he became the head of the organization there were less than a thousand members, the treasury was bankrupt, and the local was in debt. After ten years he leaves the district with over 20,000 members; he says, and with a cash balance of about $14,000. In retiring, Dolan says he has the satisfaction of knowing that the Pittsburg district has one of the best wage scales in the country. Dolan then says that, although he severs all official connection with the union, he will remain loyal to the interests of the miners.

QUIET IN MARINE CIRCLES

Vessel Owners and Workmen Are Awaiting Developments, Boats Being Tied Up at the Docks.

Cleveland, O., May 2.—There was no visible change in the marine situation caused by the strike of longshoremen and allied bodies, which has resulted in a tie-up of lake freight carrying. Partially unloaded boats are tied up at the docks, and these, it is stated, will be left untouched for the present, at least.

At one of the principal lake carrying concerns it was stated that the employment of nonunion labor even for unloading the partially unloaded boats is not now contemplated, as it is believed such a step would cause trouble. Vessel men express the opinion that the controversy will be settled within a week or ten days. Members of the longshoremen's union said there was nothing new in the situation and no probability of a change of front on their part.

Count Witte's Successor.
London, May 2.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says it is reported there that M. Goremykin, former minister of the interior, will succeed Count Witte as premier.

Remove Boundary Marks.
Calno, May 2.—Further trustworthy accounts show that there is little doubt that the boundary pillars at Rafah have been pulled down and have not been replaced.

Japanese Ambassador Arrives.
Washington, May 2.—Viscount Aoki, the newly arrived Japanese ambassador will present his credentials to President Roosevelt next Thursday.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

PRESS COMMENT.

Not Headed That Way.
Hurley Miner: A San Francisco clergyman asks: "Will heaven be crowded?" He can search us. The crowds don't seem to be headed that way just now.

Important Distinction.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Mr. Gorky says there is more liberty in Russia than in the United States. The translator should look over his notes to see if the word used was not license instead of liberty.

They'll Shout "Conspiracy!"
Oshkosh Northwestern: One of Senator La Follette's amendments was ruled out on a point of order, and of course his home admirers will see in this an outrageous conspiracy to protect the corporations.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward Weakens.
Chicago Tribune: In the magazine story she is now running Mrs. Humphrey Ward has disappointed many of her admirers. Having brought her hero to the point where the only logical and consistent thing for him to do would be to commit suicide, she weakens and permits him to live.

Unclassified Are Puzzled.
Green Bay Gazette: The real reason the democratic central committee has called a convention is to build a platform so that those so inclined may know they are democrats. Nearly all of them are today repeating this version of Hill's famous utterance: "Am I a democrat?"

Might Resign Too Often.
Exchange: Write must be tiring of proving how indispensable he is to the situation in Russia, for it has not been necessary for the czar to wake him up nights and drag him back to his desk despite his screams for as much as a week now. Perhaps there was a hint that his resignation might be accepted if he kept on proffering it so lavishly.

A Siren Voice is Heard.
El Paso Herald: Now comes the sweet, soothing siren song of the San Francisco real estate men: "Not so very much damage done; banks in good shape; business will start up at once; office buildings all right; contracts being let in every direction for repairs and rebuilding." The disaster is following the strictly normal course; pessimism first and optimism afterwards.

Not So Fizzy As of Yore.
Whitewater Register: People who have bought patent medicines for the fizz that is in them have probably noticed that there is not quite so much bewilderment to the faculties as there used to be for the same price. The reason is that under a law passed last year if medicines contained more than a certain per cent of alcohol their vendors would have to take out a retail liquor license before offering them for sale. Some of the remedies are being put up in tablet form that used to appear as liquids.

That Northern Experiment.
Green Bay Gazette: The people of Marinette a few months ago bonded the city for $100,000 for the purpose of securing a few large manufacturing enterprises. The officials of the board of trade rented business offices, fitted them up with the people's money and started out to find the enterprises, but to date none have been landed. Green Bay has been watching the experiment from an interested standpoint, but unless a better showing is made will not care to follow it.

Surfeit of Law.
Manitowoc Pilot: As far as liberty is concerned conditions are, in some respects, steadily growing worse. This is largely due to a surfeit of law. The host energies of the people of the state are exhausted in the business of constantly making and repealing laws. Every other year hundreds of new laws are enacted, many old laws are repealed, others are emasculated, rendered ambiguous, or uncertain as to their meaning, and confusion is becoming more and more confused by a senseless multiplicity of laws.

Chivalry of Potato Belt.
Madison Journal: Because a freshman is said to have declared the girls of Stevens Point as a class showed a higher degree of smartness and culture than those attending the university he was put through a course of sprouts that would have delighted a Comanche Indian. Of course to reflect on our university girls was a grievous offense, but think of the fine loyalty shown to the fair ones of the potato belt. The hazers doubtless feel that they can plead good provocation, but it is a question whether chivalry or devilry was the predominating motive actuating this collegiate vigilance committee.

If Married, Forget It?
Exchange: A modern philosopher says that "A man will flirt with all the girls some of the time, and some of the girls all the time, but no man has a right to try to flirt with all the girls all the time." As a matter of fact, however, if he happens to be a married man he better "forget it" entirely.

Inheritance Tax—Is It Just?
Wall Street Journal: The feeling is that a man should regard his fortune in the nature of a public trust and administer it not merely for his own selfish pleasure, but also for the good of the community in which he lives. He never could have attained the fortune without the aid of hundreds and perhaps thousands of his fellowmen, or without the benefit of the laws under which he lives and the protection to him by the government. There is a feeling, therefore, that he should use his wealth so as to contribute as largely as possible to the well-being of the state. When a man lays down his trusteeship at death the proposition is that the state has the right to take a large part of the fortune which he may have accumulated. The fact that President Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie and Secretary Taft are in favor of heavy inheritance taxes for the purpose of limiting the size of fortunes, and that Mr. Gladstone shared in this belief is a striking proof that this idea has taken deep root in the soil of public opinion. It may, or may not be socialism, but the fact remains that it is becoming more and more a great public question, and the wise man will make account of it and be prepared to take an intelligent stand upon the subject.

Calls It "Psychic Mania."
Milwaukee Sentinel: Probably no feature of our modern life has produced so much whole-souled and lurid profanity as the practice of automobile enthusiasts who propel their machines at breakneck speed through city thoroughfares and along country roads. The nervous person who has been startled by the fiendish honk of the auto horn and has performed sudden and ungraceful evolutions in his agitated effort to evade the juggernaut has culled down more complicated curses on the head of the guiding intelligence of that machine than on any of the other things which occur daily to disturb his equanimity. The farmer, whose peaceful journey to town have been turned into hideous nightmares by the onward rush of the "buzz wagon" has exhausted his vituperative vocabulary and has invented strange new oaths to meet the exigencies of the occasion. Even fair women have been heard to say "drat the thing" as they scurried madly for safety at the warning toot of the horn.

But now a scientist has arisen in defense of the scorchers. He deprecates our wrath and says that the person whose desire for rapid progression causes all this anxiety, rage and nervous exhaustion is not to be censured but pitied. Dr. Lee Howard calls this aberration a "psychic mania," and holds that the delight in fast automobiling and the craving for strong drink are logically one and the same thing.

Grinning At The Guns.
Milwaukee Free Press: Copying an item from the Racine Journal about Senator McGillivray's great speech at Camp Douglas, the Janesville Gazette gave it the heading "McGillivray's First Grin," intending of course, to call it his "gun." We are all at the mercy of the angels of the composing room and the proof readers' desk.

Just when McGillivray's first grin over the campaign was grinned, we do not know. He is supposed to have had a "bee" in his hat for some years, and if the supposition is correct, he doubtless began grinning, in private, about that long ago. But the senator realizes, as so many of us do, that it is not the first grin that counts. He knows that he who grins last grins best; and he says, for a fact, that he has them all going, and does not care how many candidates come in or out for he is going to be the people's choice, and get the nomination.

Arbor Day in Wisconsin.
Evening Wisconsin: Arbor Day in Wisconsin will be observed this year on May 4.

Arbor Day, as its name implies, has to do primarily with trees. It originated in Nebraska, which was a treeless state, and the chief feature of its observance there was and still is tree-planting. Wisconsin, known in poetry as "Woody Wisconsin," still has "trees to burn." As late as 1860 there was hardly a coal stove in the state, and even in the '70's there were many locomotives in use in Wisconsin which burned wood.

So far as its primary purpose is concerned. Arbor Day has never been taken very seriously in this state. Its chief observance has been by pupils of the public schools, and their exercises have been largely didactic, consisting of the recitation of poems. Nor have even the didactic exercises been confined to the subject of trees. The Audubon societies have exerted influence to modify the character of the observance, and the day here has come to be known as Arbor and Bird Day.

Some of the interior newspapers this year suggest a still further extension of the scope of Arbor Day. They think its activity could be wisely extended to the cleaning up of back yards and alleys—the setting in order of everything out of doors in the vicinity of the habitations of men.

This is not a bad idea. Every citizen who has not put his outdoor premises in tidy condition at an earlier date would do well to devote Arbor Day to the purpose. "The better the day, the better the deed." He can plant trees after cleaning up. If he does not want to plant trees, let him plant flowers.

When Tea is Harmful.
Tea, which contains much tannin, is one of the worst things to take with fresh meat. It is said not to affect the digestion of salted or smoked meats; but that is merely saying that the two last cannot be made worse than they are.—Exchange.

KILLS DESPERADO IN WOOD

Frank Smith, Who Murdered Policeman, Is Shot to Death by Member of Posse.

Oregon City, Ore., May 2.—Frank Smith, the desperado who killed Policeman Hanton of this place last week, and who later killed Sheriff Shaver, and Capt. Henderson, of the Oregon National guard, was killed Tuesday in the woods south of New Era, Clackamas county. Smith was surprised in a thicket where he had hidden, and was shot through the head before he could use his own weapons.

Goldsmiths' Work in History.
Looking back into history since its origin, and by inspecting our museums, it is seen that everywhere and at all times goldsmiths' work has been the incarnation of the ideal of nations, the reflection of their transformations and the mirror of their dominant ideas and fluctuations in taste, the echo of their greatness and of their decadence.
